I rang BT and asked them to do a line check on it. They said it was a number that was connected to another number and they were only responsible for faults on the first number. "odd" 2. In November my son bought me a mobile phone for my birthday, I put in my Grail number it dials goes quiet then it goes to an answer phone which says "The person you are trying to locate is unavailable please try again later." "odd" 3. I could not think what was different about it so I rang my husbands mobile and told him not to answer it, I got a similar message to the grail one. I then realised what was different my Grail number never rings, it doesn't go brrrr, brrrr, It connects but never rings. "odd" I have rung it loads of times always the same so that is why I think a time must be involved. Or maybe there is another phone quiz out there. IP: Logged

That is if it is a UK day time. I think I have done about 130 I think it maybe best to try and search it out via the 10 40 message but I have not solved that bit yet. I have such a lot of gardening to catch up on It will be a while before I get back in to it. I'll take my mobile with me weeding you never no I may just get lucky, trouble is I won't have my answers with me. All the best. Foxglove IP: Logged

When I called back he said that I must be a friend of his' doing a joke. So, if someone actually picks up the phone when you call, first make sure that the person is really the Grail Keeper. You can always call back later, i.e. the next day at the same time! Dr Liebchen IP: Logged
